

Killing and Wounding Strikers at Estevan Arouses Strong Denunciation Crows Nest Miners

Resolution Condemning Killings Forwarded to Premier Bennett and Premier Anderson

Senator Gideon Robertson Admits Estevan Miners Suffering from Grievances

A resolution was passed at last night's meeting of the Canadian Labor Defense League condemning the police killings at Estevan and asking for the release of arrested strikers and the withdrawal of the police from the strike area. It was telegraphed to Premier Bennett, Ottawa, and the Saskatchewan premier, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Regina.

Events in the Estevan-Bienfait coal mining area have developed into a serious mess, with the loss of two lives and several injured as the result of a riot in the main street of Estevan on Tuesday afternoon.

Apparently determined opposition by the operators refusing to negotiate with the striking miners brought matters to a climax. To aggravate the situation a large number of alleged farmers of the district are reported to have applied for work and the operators attempted to work the mines with their aid.

The mines around which the dispute centres are in the southeast portion of Saskatchewan, 144 miles southeast of Moose Jaw and about 20 north of the State of North Dakota. Estevan, the chief town of the district, is the junction point of the Brandon-Estevan line of the Canadian Pacific and the Soo line from Moose Jaw to Minneapolis. Bienfait is a much smaller town eight miles east on the Brandon line. The nearest mine to Estevan is the recently developed Tracer-Trux surface stripping mine, and the oldest mines are the Western Dominion Collieries, of which Andrew Miller, chief of mine inspectors for Alberta, was manager for a few years, and the Manitoba & Saskatchewan Collieries. Others are the Canadian, Crescent, Eastern, National and Shand, their combined daily capacity being 6250 tons. They vary in distance from two to ten miles east of Estevan, surrounded by a farming district. The coal is shipped within a radius of 200 miles and some to Winnipeg. Due to its high moist ure content of 30 per cent its use is confined largely to winter. The mines are non-gaseous.

The field was first opened up about 40 years ago, the late Hugh Sutherland of Winnipeg taking a prominent part in its development, being interested in Western Dominion Collieries. William Hamilton, well known in connection with the Passburg mine, is part owner of a mine south of Bienfait. Mr. Sutherland over 30 years ago attempted to have coal floated by barge down the Souris river from Roche Perce to Winnipeg, but the barges were stranded. The field is served by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways.

It has never been a union field, with the result that each mine made its own scale of pay. Attempts to organize a union were always frustrated, which no doubt contributed to the feeling of unrest and made it a fertile ground for Workers Unity League organizers. The trouble commenced according to newspaper reports with the advent

Protest Action of Police Killings at Estevan

The open air mass meeting called by the Canadian Labor Defense League, another offshoot of the Communist party in Canada, attracted quite a number of men and women to the advertised place of meeting outside the post-office in the centre of town, at 7 p. m. last evening. John Stokulak, secretary of the local branch of the Workers Unity League, stated that it had been decided to change the arrangements, and hold the meeting in the Ukrainian hall in East Coleman, as Comrade Miller from Calgary and others were to speak, and a resolution was to be passed.

About half the number marched to the Ukrainian hall, whilst the others who had come expecting to see the open air meeting proceed, remained on the street corner talking things over.

A resolution was passed and forwarded to the authorities condemning in drastic terms the killing and wounding of strikers at Estevan.

This morning another meeting is called for 10 a. m. of all mine workers, as it is reported the pit committees will report at this meeting on the conference as to laying off of single men. It is reported that no action has been taken as to laying off single men.

of James Sloan of Lethbridge. Attempts have been made in the past few weeks to have the operators confer with union representatives, but the former refused because they stated the strike was organized by "Reds."

The climax came when despite orders by Mayor Bannatyne that the strikers could not hold a meeting in or outside of Estevan town hall, they paraded and were met by mounted police who attempted to bar their way. With such a tense feeling prevailing, the running out of the fire hose in an attempt to disperse the men increased their anger. They seized the hose and came to blows with the police, who later used their guns, killing two of the strikers and injuring several.

Had the men been allowed to parade in an open space and hold their meeting, over which the police could have maintained order, there is no doubt that bloodshed would have been avoided. When mob spirit breaks loose, there is no telling to what lengths it will go, and every effort should be made to maintain order instead of provoking a mob to violence. If speakers at these meetings are guilty of sedition then the law can quite easily take its course, without police falling back on the use of firearms to restore order.

The disgraceful conditions under which men worked in the lignite mines have existed for years, and there have been allowed to prevail in spite of demonstrations of dissatisfaction, which the local authorities have ignored and connived in suppressing. Collusion has existed with the mine operators in past years, and the kidnapping incident of P. M. Christopher is still remembered in this connection. Investigation, if conducted in an absolutely impartial manner, and in which the Estevan miners will have capable counsel to present their grievances, will undoubtedly reveal that many of these are to be blamed on the operators, and collectively they are equally guilty as those who fired the shots.

Helping the Needy

Mr. Alex Cameron sent over 50 boxes of apples from his farm at Creston for free distribution among needy people in Coleman, prepaying the freight, so that the only thing the council had to do was distribute them. Council members made a list of people whom they considered should receive the apples, and Constable Houghton supervised the distribution. Many expressions of thanks were received and in some cases those who understood very little English hesitated to take the apples, until assured they were a gift from Mr. Cameron. Need less to remark, such a kindly act was appreciated to the fullest extent.

An International Daily

Attention is drawn to the advertisement of the Christian Science Monitor in this issue. This splendid international daily newspaper will not play up crime news. It publishes articles on world events which are very informative and useful to those who desire to keep in touch with affairs throughout the world. Its articles on the march of events in Great Britain, since the national government was formed contained information which other dailies on this side of the Atlantic have not attempted to record.

A Bonus to British Industry

The adverse exchange rate against the British pound sterling will set in a manner similar to a protective tariff. In New York a pound sterling has been purchasable at almost a dollar below par value of $4.86, and Canadian dollars are at a discount of nearly ten cents in the States. The deflated value of British and Canadian currency will encourage export trade of these countries, for everyone buys in the cheapest market. Reduced to plain terms it means that a dollar's worth of Canadian goods may be purchased in the U.S. for approximately 90c, or a British shilling's worth for approximately $4.00.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH

Next Sunday, the eighteenth after Trinity, the services will be: 8:00 a.m. Holy Communion. 2:30 p.m. Sunday school.

7:00 p.m. Evensong and sermon. The harvest festival will be held next Sunday, Oct. 4th, and gifts of fruits, flowers and vegetables will be gratefully received, for decorating God's House. The choir is preparing special music and will sing the anthem "O Lord how Manifold are Thy Works." Special harvest psalms and hymns will be sung. Rev. A. G. McMorine, the rector of St. Paul's Church, Michel, will be the special preacher.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Miss Madeleine Chardon announces that her classes in music will be resumed in Blaimore and Coleman, commencing October 5.

The Oddfellows and Rebekah lodge will hold a whist drive and dance on Saturday, Oct. 3, commencing at 8 p. m. Admission 50c. Everybody welcome. These social evenings will be held every first Saturday in each month.

It was decided that the regular meetings be held on the last Wednesday of each month. Time and place of the meetings will be announced later.

Be a Self-Starter

No matter what other merits you possess they may get you nothing if you haven't gumption enough to push yourself to the front and put them in practice. To get anything useful out of himself a man must first believe in himself. Self assurance is the foundation upon which successful outcome is begun. But even the man who believes in himself may lack the irresistible impulse to try it. It is self-assurance gumption—call it what you will—which supplies that impulse. Grocery Journal.

Fire Destroys Car

Fire destroyed a small building in which was housed a car belonging to Joe Kourv, who lives at the rear of Chas. Nichol's house on Second street. The alarm sounded at 11 a. m. and a quiet, peaceful street immediately became almost as active as an ant-hill. High water pressure quickly extinguished the blaze, but it had a good start before the arrival of the brigade, and the car was rendered useless. A small fire of rubbish had been lighted by a neighbor a short distance west of the garage, but it was not determined if this caused the fire.

Ike—"Does your father have to pay much for coal?"

Mike—"Not a cent! We live by the railroad track and he makes faces at the engineers."

Deep Mines

Englishman—"We have coal mines so deep that it takes an hour to get down into some of them and an hour to get to the surface."

American—"That's nothing. We have mines so deep that it takes half a day to go down into them and another half day to come out!"

Englishman—"Ridiculous! When is the work done?"

American—"Oh, the night shift does that."

Ha Ha We've Discovered Him!

The smallest man on earth revealed himself this week. Church officers in Blaimore sent out an appeal for harvest thanksgiving, with an enclosed envelope for return of a donation by those who may not have been able to attend the services. The envelope was returned with a copper cent therein. If that chap has any hope of salvation, then he should be satisfied with a cent's worth.

Meeting The Challenge

In these troublesome times, when economic conditions of the world are causing acute suffering, any line of reasoning that will tend to stiffen the morale, is surely welcome. Some comfort, perhaps, may be drawn from the fact that we in Canada are doubtless less affected than other countries, and if we can credit the utterances of many well-informed writers and public speakers, we shall be among the first of the nations to emerge from this depression. We are no doubt now paying the price of rather extravagant living, and the present is a very good time to take stock and to reconstruct our ideas in conformity with the fixed laws of economics. And we must consider not only material things, but also the matter of character and the true worth of the individual. The present is surely a testing time. Roy L. Smith, contributing a most helpful article in a recent issue of The Rotarian, says that while the financial conditions have upset our economic structure, the real values of life are unshaken and solid. We cannot do better than to quote his article in full, which is as follows:

"We have passed through a panic suffered from a crash on the stock market and are now more than half way through the depression, and I am still rich."

"It may be true that I have much less to live on than I had a year ago, but it is certainly true that I have just as much as ever to live for. The real values of life are unshaken and solid."

"The stock crash cost us much that we never had—paper profits which never got nearer our pockets than the financial pages of the daily papers. The market failed but nothing else did. Prices went down, but not one acre lost its fertility and all the electrons, protons and other waves went on working in their accustomed ways."

"When the depression came I was compelled to take an invoice and soon discovered that I was still rich. All my capacity for the enjoyment of life was intact."

"The depression has not lowered the value of a single friendship. Neighbors still greet us in the same old, cordial way, business associates believe us and our sons hold us in high respect. The wife's welcome at the close of the day has not depreciated in the least and our daughters continue to lavish their affection upon us with the same old extravagance."

"My faith in the goodness of the universe is unimpaired. By that faith I am emboldened as I face defeat and despair. The prayers my mother taught me and the faith in God instilled in me by a devout father remain as priceless treasures no depression can touch."

"No nation becomes great by becoming rich. Neither does a man find enduring satisfaction in life by owning something—only by becoming something. The most degrading poverty is that which results from killing the spirit that the body may be served."

"This depression has cost us some of the things we created but it has robbed us of none of our power to create. We may lose some beautiful things, but we have lost no love of the beautiful."

"It is a challenge, not a catastrophe. A generation that has conquered the air and sent giant 'planes circling the globe, which has plunged into the deeps and disappeared on the ocean's floor, which has climbed above the clouds and lived in the stratosphere, is now faced with the challenge to rise above its dependence on mere things and seek an emancipation of the spirit of man."

"The last six months have been for many men a thrilling spiritual adventure through which they have discovered their real wealth. Bereft of dividends and profits they are discovering the sustaining powers of strong religious faith: the abiding value of courage, heroism, honor, clarity and trustworthiness."

"A financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill, but character is beyond its reach. It can rob us of all we have, but it cannot affect what we are."

"The investments we made in ambitious youth, hospitals, crippled children's camps, colleges and service institutions go on paying dividends. The deepest satisfactions of life—those which come from sharing and serving—remain secure."

"I am still rich because I am independently rich—none of my wealth depends upon business conditions or market reports."

Austrian Scientist Invents New "Match"

Can Be Lighted Six Hundred Times and Extinguishes Itself

Dr. Ferdinand Ringer, an Austrian scientist, has invented a "match" which is capable of being lighted six hundred times. The device is no larger than an ordinary match, but is composed of special chemicals. When the match is struck in the normal way, gases are released which feed the flame and on reaching a certain temperature, the flame is extinguished by a release of nitrogen gas. This process may be repeated six hundred times, and the flame lasts long enough to enable a cigarette to be lighted. A larger match, intended for domestic use, is capable of being used two thousand times. The material of which the device is composed is non-poisonous, and if a lighted match is dropped, contact with the ground extinguishes the flame. The invention is not yet in practical use.

Dysentery Is a Very Dangerous Bowel Complaint

Mrs. E. M. Ward, 627 Ave. H. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes:—"When my husband was in France he took dysentery, and was in hospital over a year. Ever since he came back he has had the attack three or four times a year. I cannot emphasize the good Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for him. He generally takes a few doses and gets relief in a few hours."

"I cannot speak too highly of your excellent remedy, and you may be sure we are never without a bottle of it in the house."

John Bull Keeps Cool

Does Not See Way Out But Knows One Will Be Found

Despite all appeals and warnings Britons seem to retain their customary confidence that everything will turn out right in the end. This is the attitude which returning travelers report that they have encountered in all parts of England. The people do not know exactly how they are to be pulled out of their trouble, but are positive that the thing will somehow be done. Dr. Johnson's saying of a certain writer that "he founders will be applied to John Bull. He has, and he knows it, a way of flogging through. This is what keeps him calm when the visible facts might make others think that he ought to be frightfully agitated."—New York Times.

NEIGHBORS TALK

"I am employed in a theatre and it is a problem to make ends meet. I help support my mother and sisters. I like to dress well but haven't very much to spend on clothes. To give the appearance of variety to my slender wardrobe I change the colour of a dress or stockings as soon as the things become faded. I always use Diamond Dyes for the work—using them as dyes for dresses and as tints for stockings. I have always gotten such perfect results that our neighbors talk about the great number of new things I have."

"I learned about Diamond Dyes from our wardrobe mistress. She says she has tried all the dyes on the market but none do such splendid work and are so easy to use as Diamond Dyes. I understand they are the world's most popular dye—and they deserve to be."

Roads For Airplanes

Beam Like Searchlight Enables Pilots To Keep Their Bearings

In the near future aeroplanes may use roads or tracks just as motor-cars and railway trains do today. The aeroplane roads will not be visible, but they will be there. They will consist of beams of intense light rays from one point to another just like the beam of a gigantic searchlight. An experiment with this new method of flying was made recently. At Manchester and Bristol transmitting stations are erected which send out wireless waves focused into a beam from one point to another just like the beam of a gigantic searchlight. Capitalist Farming

Should Be Avoided
Farm Operated By Owner Is the Safest Proposition

Will any bad results come from the lower standard of living which is being forced, this time at least, on many families throughout the Dominion? Fears have been expressed that ownership of much of the land will pass into the hands of loan companies or private capitalists, leaving the worker in the position of a tenant. This matter was discussed at the convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Regina recently, following a memorandum from Winnipeg. The sponsors of the idea realized that a policy for improved conditions could only be formulated after a full survey of facts that will be available when the census figures for 1911 appear.

Marketing is recognized as a main factor in restoring prosperity to the farmer. Problems such as grading for home trade and export market requirements, transportation and the reduction of costs, inter-provincial control of disease, are essentially national in character and therefore should be taken into investigation and control of the Dominion Government.

Advertising of farm products is another line of efforts which must be national in scope in order to be effective. The Winnipeg Board of Trade points out that more money is spent in the Dominion in advertising toilet articles than in setting forth the merits of farm products.

These business men are pretty well agreed that the owner operated farm is the safest proposition and that the farmer should be encouraged to take full control. Holders of mortgages are loath to take over property knowing full well that the farmer himself is usually best fitted to dig his way out of the present depression.

May Create Traffic Problem For Tibet

Dalai Lama Trying To Break Down Prejudice Against Motor Cars

Tibetan roads are usually associated with motorists' nightmares, and it is most interesting to learn that the Dalai Lama of Tibet, one of the most secluded religious heads in the world, is to have a motor car. The average Tibetan looks upon a motor car as a "devil's wagon," but the Dalai Lama is confident that he will break down existing prejudices, so that soon Tibet may have a traffic problem to cope with. The Chinese government does not propose to run any risks when he is out in his motor car, and it has been arranged that parties of thirty coolies will be posted at intervals along the mountain passes which he traverses. These gentlemen, it is said, carry the Dalai Lama's motor car on their heads along parts of the road which are not traversable!

The Gold Standard

Explanation As Given Below May Be Of Interest

The gold standard of exchange is normally in use by virtually every civilized nation of the world. It is predicated on the fact that paper money of a country's bank of issue is redeemable in gold on demand. The suspension of gold payments in Great Britain means that the Bank of England is not bound now under an act of parliament of 1925, to buy an act of stipulated standards for three pounds, 17 shillings, 10 pence per troy ounce. This, in effect, has resulted in the British pound sterling being equivalent normally to $4.85.

In the foreign exchange market recently, with the pound sterling available below its gold parity, it has been profitable for banks to acquire sterling pounds in the market, convert them into gold at parity, and then convert the gold into other currencies by exporting the gold.

The pound sterling was pegged in New York during the war at $4.75. It reached this artificial height by means of securities sale of dollars held by British citizens.

In 1919, it was decided to remove the support, and the sterling dropped, until finally in 1919 it hit a new low of $3.10.

The gold standard has been adopted by most every country since the war.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Road improvement work was commenced near Passburg not as a work of necessity, but as a relief measure by the provincial government to furnish work for unemployed in Hillcrest and Bellevue at 30c an hour. Union organizers persuaded the majority of the men to strike for 50c an hour. The government struck against the demand, and the work was abandoned. Who suffers?

The mob spirit and ignoring the law resulted in clashes between strikers and unemployed in Winnipeg and Estevan. These and similar uprisings are organized by the Red radical element. Copies of "The Worker" will contain reports of "battles with police" and place the victims in the role of martyrs. In this way it is hoped to create sympathy for the cause.

These uprisings instead of gaining support of the public masses, which include millions of workers besides those who are organized by the Red element, will likely antagonize public opinion. Law and authority must be supported, or anarchy will result. A review of the types of men who have been prominent in the Communist movement in Canada indicates what we might expect.

"Luckys are always k---ind to your throat" is a phrase that radio audiences are familiar with. Some are tempted to throw a boot into the receiver every time they hear it, but the most satirical comment noticed recently is an editorial from the Christian Science Monitor, which is so good that it is reproduced: "Let the Buyer Beware" is the heading and here it is:

Can it be the tobacco industry has experienced a moral awakening? Or is it that tobacco companies feel they are making too much money? It is with questions something like these that the reader of newspapers and magazines—not to mention the long-suffering radio listener—is responding to the weird devices lately employed by cigarette advertisers.

On every hand he is confronted with assertions that tobacco contains harmful ingredients—elements strong enough, in fact, to serve as a base for sheep dip. Again and again he is warned—nay, entreated—to consider his larynx. "Sheep-dip base" evidently is not the ideal lubricant for vocal mechanisms. The reader can hardly doubt these assertions. They are made by manufacturers of cigarettes. Manufacturers should, and probably do, know what they are talking about.

So the reader decides tobacco is all right in its place. But he also concludes that its place is in strong chemical compounds, not in products intended for human consumption. Cigarette advertising has made this almost perturbingly clear. For some unaccountable reason, however, it has neglected to advise directly against the use of tobacco. Perhaps it feels a word to the wise should be sufficient.

And after all, the reader has been told that even the "harsh, irritating ingredients" in raw tobaccos can be removed by a certain judicious toasting. The reader can now sigh, according to his taste, either with disappointment or relief. Tobacco is bad stuff only until it's toasted.

But hold on—what's this? Other manufacturers declare the harmful element in tobacco is produced by drying, by parching with heat—in other words, as the reader may infer, by toasting. Ah, this clarifies the situation.

But not yet have the cigarette advertisers told all. Still another feels duty bound to come forth with a warning. This time the cry is against ash-tray breath. Here the reader is exhorted to keep himself sweet and clean. This effort is aided by another advertisement which recommends the use of a certain toothpaste as a countercheck to the undesirable effects tobacco has upon the teeth.

All this concern for his welfare is, of course, deeply appreciated by the reader. It is obvious tobacco companies are spending fortunes weekly to safeguard him against one another's product.

Now that cigarette sales are reported on the decline, may it be that tobacco companies, consciously or not, are carrying on the sort of temperance campaign the brewers have been wont to promise? At any rate, when the combined effect of their statements is considered, they have amply warned the public against the evil effects of cigarettes.

For every person who sets forth to perform a good act or work for a community cause, there is another who will stand and sneer. Having nothing constructive to offer, and not having sufficient mental energy to originate something useful, they look only for the faults instead of the good motives behind the actions of those whom they criticize. Such criticism or sneers come from those whose opinions are as useful as the braying of an ass.

Show Window*It's Just One of Several Means of Advertising Good Goods

There isn't any business man who would for a moment consider the idea of boarding up his show window and stopping this splendid means of letting all who pass by his store or shop know the values and the goods he has to offer them. There is scarcely any type of retail business that does not put a great deal of time in dressing the windows and having them properly lighted.

And yet not a fifth of your customers pass that show window on an average of once a week. You may have a fine window and great values and the best of goods and yet if you depend entirely on that one means of reaching all your possible customers you will fall far short of the objective. There are hundreds of busy housewives who do not have time to go down town every day.

These housewives arrange the family buying. If they can't window shop, they do their buying through advertisements. Even the window shoppers know that they will miss many excellent values if they fail to carefully scan the advertisements.

When the merchant fails to use the advertising columns he is boarding up the means of displaying and selling his goods to a circle much larger than the display window class of shoppers. Progressive merchants like to invite all classes to their store. Most people like to shop where merchants display their goods and values. The day of buying an unknown article has gone.

Every week there are hundreds of readers of The Journal who are waiting for an invitation to shop at your store. Are you boarding up the advertising show window and telling them that you have nothing for sale? They will never know your values if you do not remove the boards.

Growth Of Population Of Western Provinces Reveals Developments Of Last Decade

Canada, like the rest of the world, is passing through a troublous period. The collapse of grain prices, and the drought that afflicted a large portion of the prairie provinces during the spring and early summer, have checked her prosperity, and her statesmen are at the moment wrestling with the problems, to them happily unfamiliar, of wide-spread destitution and unemployment in the West. Immigration naturally has had to be checked, and for a time Canada has to think more of preserving and consolidating the prosperity of her existing population than of stimulating its growth. With her vast territory, however, and her immense natural resources this can only be a passing phase. It does not make it any the less true that the more Canadians the better, nor will it decrease the satisfaction which every Canadian will feel over the fact that the population of the Dominion has almost doubled itself since 1901.

Only the preliminary returns of the census have so far been published, and few details are available, but it is plain that the centre of population continues to move westward. Toronto, it is true, shows an increase of over twenty per cent. in the ten years, and a city of 627,582 inhabitants; but in Vancouver, which has now a population of nearly a quarter million, the increase has been over fifty per cent.; and Winnipeg shows a growth from 179,087 to 217,587. The amazing development of the new Canada west of the lakes is reflected in the expansion of the prairie capital from a tiny settlement of 241 souls in 1871, to the fine city which Winnipeg is today, with its spacious boulevards, palatial public buildings, and its university attended by over 2,000 students.

It is typical of the new Canada that the city is laid out and equipped on a scale proportioned rather to the great and prosperous future which its planners confidently expected than to actual needs of the immediate present. No that the staple product of the prairies can find buyers only at unremunerative prices, the burden of this lavish capital equipment is severely felt. The farmers, upon whose property is built the prosperity of the West, and, indeed, of the whole of Canada, are feeling the pinch of bad times, and despondent voices are heard regretting that the reduced income of the country has been so heavily mortgaged. But that—like the depression—is a temporary phenomenon. The Western Provinces will recover from their present setback, and may well be the more prosperous in the end for the lessons learned during their time of adversity.—London Times.

Revenue From Poultry

Value Of Eggs Produced Last Year Estimated At $81,000,000
On 70,000 Alberta farms, with an average of 80 hens, there were produced last year 31,000,000 dozen eggs and exported 122 carloads, stated H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, during an address at the opening meeting of the season of the Edmonton Poultry and Pet Stock Association.

Mr. Craig stated that figures received from a reliable source showed that poultry provided a very good part of Canadian farm revenue, for in 1930 eggs alone reached the grand total of $81,000,000.

Russian Wheat Lower Grade Than Canada

Crop From Western Prairies Is Of Better Quality

A special despatch to the Toronto Globe from Ottawa says:

A report just completed by the agricultural statistics branch of the Bureau of Statistics confirms the Chicago wheat pit report that the United States and Canada control a large portion of the world's visible supply of high-grade wheat.

According to information available here, there will be an exportable surplus of only from 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels of wheat in Russia this year, but it will not grade as high as the Canadian wheat.

As to Argentina, it is too early to tell what the harvest will be, as the crop there is only as far advanced as the Canadian crop would be in June. The Australian crop is just through the ground.

Up to the present time, Canada has made no arrangements for the marketing of wheat in China, but the United States is disposing of some cargoes in the Orient by the arrangement of credits through the United States Government.

Hon. Herbert M. Marler, Canadian Minister to Tokyo, visited China some months ago, with the object of securing a market for Canadian wheat but the situation was such that no sales were arranged for at that time.

Candles Still Popular

Have Average Estimated Value Of Eighteen Million Dollars Yearly
Candles, the world's oldest lighting device, constitute a item of about 30 million pounds with an average estimated value of 18 million dollars in the annual export trade of the world, says the Department of Commerce. Great Britain is the largest exporter of candles, and, characteristic of the world trade in that commodity, showed a decline in exports during 1930, when the total was 10,743,040 pounds. France took second place with exports of 4,404,350 pounds. Belgium was third with 3,820,572 pounds. The United States exported 1,066,354 pounds during the year.

Controversy Almost Over

One Act In Drama Of Hudson Bay Route Ended

Complete satisfaction with Churchill Harbour and the loading of the last shipment of grain has been expressed by Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of the Interior, and Manitoba's representative in the federal cabinet, who arrived here after attending the loading of the first two grain boats out of Manitoba's new ocean port.

With the completion of the railway and the successful test of the harbour, one act in the drama of the Hudson Bay route is ended, Mr. Murphy said, and a controversy extending over half a century is about to be settled.

Fall Rye Distribution

Saskatchewan Department Of Agriculture Being Flooded With Orders

Orders for nearly 100,000 bushels of fall rye have been received to date by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture. The seed has been purchased by the Government and shipped to Moose Jaw where a considerable quantity already has passed through the cleaning plant and has been distributed to farmers. The plant is operating twenty-four hours a day in order that supplies may be delivered in good time for seeding. Provisions of The Temporary Seed Grain Act apply.

Identification Easy

Mrs. Murphy was the proud possessor of two boys, and while taking them out in the park ran across her neighbor, Mrs. Casey.
"Arrah," said the latter, "an' it's a perfect pair o' boys they are; but tell me, how do you manage to tell them one from the other? For not a bit of difference I can see between them."

Her friend smiled as she rocked her children to and fro.
"Ah," she replied, "it's quite easy; for, you see, little Mike has a tooth stands still while you gaze into my finger in Tim's mouth, an' if he bites, why, then it's Mike."

CANADIAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUSINESS MEN VISIT MANITOBA'S SEAPORT

Some 300 leading figures in Canadian industrial and business life journeyed in three special Canadian National trains to Churchill early in September, under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. In earning the distinction of being the first organized party to visit Manitoba's seaport, they were witnesses to the inception of a venture which represents the hope and desire of the prairie provinces—the opening of a new trade route for the products of the West.

In the above are some of the prominent members of the party and other views presenting an appearance of stability at the northern port. 1. Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Premier of Saskatchewan. 2. Fabulous Riches To Be Found When Gold Fields Of Cariboo Country Are Properly Developed

Child Hygiene Work In Canada Praised

American Health Officers Thankful For Inspiration and Ideas Given

After a day in Montreal well filled with meetings and discussion, the health officers section, child hygiene section, American Association of School Physicians and the International Society of Medical Health Officers delegates gathered for a joint dinner under the presidency of Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, president of the American Public Health Association. Dr. William F. Snow, general director, American Social Hygiene Association, New York, brought to Canadian members and collaborating agencies the thanks of American health officers and other officials and workers in the field of child hygiene, for the inspiration and ideas they had gained from Canada's "forward looking protection and conservation policies."

Dr. Kendall Emerson, New York, addressing the dinner, said he believed that 50 per cent. of the surgery of the past 25 years could have been avoided, and that if left undone it would have meant healing and recovery, in the majority of cases.

Early Snow Needed

Falling Before Ground Is Frozen Assists Greatly In Storing Moisture

There probably never was a time in the history of agriculture in the Prairies when early snow was so much needed as at the present time. The extent to which snow contributes moisture to the fields depends directly on the time at which it falls, according to W. D. Albright, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Sub-station at Beaveridge, Alberta. When a thick coat of snow falls on unfrozen ground a great deal of it melts and becomes established as soil moisture. The extent to which soil can be kept unfrozen and permeable depends entirely upon natural developments. If the snow falls early to a good depth it will ensure a considerable supply of moisture in the soil, while if rains or sleet permeate the surface soil and freeze they are likely to form a solid coating which will leave the ground almost as dry in the spring next year as it now is.

Gold to the value of hundreds of millions of dollars is still to be found in the Cariboo country, according to Dean R. W. Brock, of the University of British Columbia, who recently conducted a survey of the mineral resources of that section for the provincial government.

According to this report, evidence is accumulating to indicate that in the day when the Cariboo gold fields lured fortune seekers from all quarters of the globe more than a century ago, the surface of the district's mineral wealth was barely scratched. Intensive development and more modern methods may be expected to yield a vast treasure of gold far greater than the records of the past.

The Cariboo, however, is only one of several promising placer gold regions, according to a special bulletin issued by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines.

An increase in the production of placer gold in British Columbia was recorded last year, this bulletin states, and Mr. McKenzie estimates that there will be a further increase this year. Preliminary figures show that larger amounts of gold are being recovered in the Atlin country. And prospectors are doing well with pan and rocker along the Fraser, Thompson, Similkameen and other rivers. Bars which have been inoperative for years have been developed and in the old placer camps many old diggings are being re-worked. This is due partly to unemployment in other fields which had attracted men to the mines and partly to the strong position of gold in the world's markets.

Gold scales, which for 20 years have been accumulating debris in basements and warehouses, are restored to their former conspicuous places on the counters of Cariboo general stores for the accommodation of bar miners.

There are more prospectors at present working on the river bars and in the hills of Cariboo than at any other time in the last three or four decades. Some make "wages" and better, while others take out little more than "grub." Hope of uncovering a rich deposit keeps the majority cheerfully at work.

On the larger streams they drift down with the current in search of "better ground." Some employ low raft, many of which are poorly constructed and often their occupants come to grief. Others use dugouts and roughly fashioned flat bottomed boats. Where the streams are not navigable even for small boats, prospectors resort to back-packing. One man set out, early in the spring, with a wheelbarrow on which was loaded his rocker and other equipment.

His destination was 40 miles out. But he compromised on a likely looking bar seven miles distant. He has remained there all summer taking out fair wages.

Reduce Wheat Acreage

Oklahoma Has a Plan To Limit Crop Production

A definite move to bring about a reduction in cotton and wheat acreage by limitation of planting and enforced rotation is under way in Oklahoma.

Representatives of wheat and cotton growing counties, meeting at the call of Governor W. H. Murray, agreed upon a plan to confine 1932 cotton acreage to one-third and wheat acreage to two-thirds of the state's tillable land.

The plan, provides that farmers could not lawfully plant cotton on the same land two years in succession. Wheat could not be planted for more than three successive years on the same land.

Big Fur Shipment

Nearly half a million dollars worth of furs from the sub-Arctic barren lands are enroute to London, England. The shipment, 75 bales in all, is composed of valuable pelts—silver fox, white fox and a few choice beaver skins. The cargo is declared to be one of the richest in recent years.

For Eucharistic Conference

Cunard Steamship "Lancastria"
Chartered For Special Trip
To Dublin, Ireland

The Cunard "Lancastria" has been chartered by Thos. Cook & Son, famous world-wide travel organization, for a special trip to Dublin, Ireland, next June, for the great Eucharistic Congress which will attract thousands to Erin's Isle. Thos. Cook & Son, it may be recalled, were recently appointed by the Holy Father as the Official Travel Agent to the Holy See at Rome.

During the five days of the Eucharistic Congress the "Lancastria" will stay at Dublin to enable her passengers to make use of the ship as their hotel. This is an especially important feature in that it not only will make costs of a trip to the Congress cheaper, but also will make the trip more comfortable since every available hotel and boarding facility of the capital of the Irish Free State will be taxed to the utmost during that period.

The minimum round trip rates for the "Lancastria" cruise will be $390, in Cabin Class and $285 in Tourist Third Class.

Cunard agents throughout Canada and the United States are urged to book freely for the Lancastria Eucharistic Congress trip. They will be protected by Thos. Cook & Son on the regular steamship commission.

There is certain to be a large movement to Ireland for the Eucharistic Congress, since many of Irish birth or descent in Canada and the United States will take the splendid opportunity to attend this impressive demonstration of religious faith and at the same time see something of the new Ireland which is rising on the ashes of the old. Today the Irish Free State is classed as one of the very small number of nations in the entire world which have not suffered materially from the economic depression. Employment there is at a low ebb and steady progress is being made in the line of manufactured products of various types and the aggregate work of the country.

LOST 30 lbs. FAT IN 3 MONTHS

AT THE AGE OF 40

"I was very stout, and I have taken Kruschen Salts for 8 months, and have reduced from 212 lbs. to 182 lbs. (Age 40). I am a hearty eater, and have never dieted in any way. Also I have never felt any ill effects while I have been taking Kruschen Salts."—T. H.

That is an instance of Kruschen succeeding without assistance. But if any fat person will be satisfied with a moderate diet, and will take one box of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—they can lose fat in just the same way.

This is what Kruschen Salts does—It cleans out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fills you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd almost forgotten had existed—you get the needed exercise.

As a result, instead of planning your life in an easy chair every free moment and letting fatty fat accumulate, you feel an urge for action, and thus you are always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Danced On the DO-X

Germany Proves Great "Plane Good As Ocean Liner"

For the time being, her size satisfies our imagination. With a wing spread of 152 feet and a hull 131 feet long, twelve motors and two decks providing ample quarters for passengers and crew, it is possible for her to carry a payload of from sixty to seventy passengers in addition to her crew of twelve. In one tight flight she actually carried 100 persons. As a final note on her resemblance to an ocean liner, it is reported that the passengers en route to New York held a dance on board ship after leaving Hampton Roads.

The DO-X, an experiment and its mishaps may be attributed to this fact. It is still to be seen whether other this 'plane or others built like her can be regularly and profitably used in air transportation. In any event Germany has shown us what can be done with the dirigible in trans-Atlantic flying; she is now attempting to demonstrate the possibilities of giant airplanes.—New York Evening Post.

Champion Rabbit Catcher

Isaac Gough, of Gloucestershire, England, claims to be the champion rabbit catcher of Britain. He declared recently that he and his two sons had caught 52,343 rabbits between August and March. They have caught 1,500 in 10 days and 534 in one night. Mr. Gough makes so much money from trapping that he pays income tax and is proud of it.

Purchase Junkers 'Plane

T. Siers, superintendent of maintenance for Canadian Airways (western division), is now in Germany to take delivery of a new Junkers 'plane for his company. The aircraft, known as the JU-52 type, is designed as a commercial air freighter and will carry a load of 6,000 pounds at a speed of a hundred miles an hour.

Further discouragement to British migration to the Dominion appeared in an announcement from the Overseas Settlement Department that the special $50 passage rate for British settlers to Canada was withdrawn October 1.

Sir Howard Grubb, noted authority on astronomical instruments and builder of them, died recently in Dublin. Sir Howard has sometimes been credited with the invention of the submarine periscope and he made many developments on it.

Stubble Should Be Burned

Method Has Proved Superior To Any Other Treatment

When stubble has been burned off and the land again seeded, after a minimum amount of cultivation, the yields of grain have proven this method to be superior to any other stubble treatment according to results obtained by the Dominion Experimental Farms over a number of years. Objections to the burning of stubble are loss of nitrogen, loss of moisture, and some loss of soil fertility; while supporting the practice are weed control, clean crop, and convenience.

Explanations and Comments

The Two Great Workers Separate, Acts 15:36-41.—"Come and let us go back and visit the brothers in every town where we have proclaimed the word of the Lord. Let us see how they are doing." (Moffatt's Version), said Paul to Barnabas, who had spent some time in Antioch of Syria after the return from the Council in Jerusalem. Barnabas was ready for another missionary tour, but he wished to try Mark again, while Paul would not take a man with whom he had deserted them in Pamphylia on their first tour. Unable to agree, the two apostles separated—Barnabas took Mark with him and sailed for Cyprus, and here we part with great-hearted missionary, for there is no further record of his work. Paul chose Silas as his companion and they went by land through Syria and Cilicia, strengthening the churches on the way.

"The separation of Paul and Barnabas was highly conducive to the progress of the gospel. Each could now work with greater freedom. Barnabas would be delivered from a position in which he might from the increasing importance of Paul feel his own influence was diminishing; and Paul would feel more thoroughly independent. Besides, instead of one mission, now there were two; Barnabas and Mark labouring in one country and Paul and Silas in another; and thus double work would be performed."—Clegg.

Timothy Chosen As a Companion, Acts 16:1-5.—Paul and Silas visited Derbe and Lystra, and in the latter city Paul chose Timothy, a young man of good reputation, to accompany them on their journey. As they travelled from town to town they delivered to the churches the resolutions passed at the Council in Jerusalem. Everywhere the churches were strengthened in the faith (i.e., faith in Christ, as over against the idea of the works of the law) and increased in numbers.

The Call To Europe, Acts 16:9, 10.—Up to the time of Paul's visit at Troas, the Holy Spirit had exerted His influence hindering, restraining. Then at Troas a challenge was set before Paul, he was called to make a change in his mission. At night there was a man of Macedonia standing, beseeching him, and saying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

Paul's Aim In His Work, Romans 15:18-21.—From the moment when Ananias informed Paul that he counted him a chosen instrument to bear His name before the Gentiles, up to the hour when Paul addressed his letter to the Romans, he had his task was "to make the Gentiles obedient to Christ." Christ had worked through him, he writes, through his words and deeds, through the power of signs and wonders, through the power of the Holy Spirit. From Jerusalem and round about even unto Illyricum, on the west of Macedonia, he has, he proudly declares, "fully preached the gospel of Christ." This was Paul's glorying, that he had met to its fullest extent the duty of his calling as the apostle of the Gentiles. He could point to his task and call it done, as far as time and circumstance had permitted.

His special aim had been not to build upon another's foundation, but to preach Christ, and he had not been named. In the words of Isaiah, "They shall see, to whom no tidings of Him came, And they who have not heard shall understand."

Tire may always be kept full by a device being demonstrated by an inventor at Berlin, Germany. The device consists of a pump built into each hub. It goes into action automatically when the tire pressure falls below normal and stops when proper inflation is reached.

Few Changes Required By Departmental Regulations In Saskatchewan

Allegations that the Saskatchewan Department of Education has authorized radical changes in school text books involving needless expense to parents in these days of financial depression, are declared unfounded in a recent statement to the press, emanating from the Department.

The statement asserts that the new curriculum recently adopted for public and high schools of the province, does not require the scrapping of old text books and the purchase of new. In fact, it is set forth that, pursuant to instructions from Premier J. T. M. Anderson, as Minister of Education, pupils having access to old school books formerly authorized by the Department, are not required to purchase new ones.

The statement further shows that, far from causing additional expense to parents, the new curriculum actually calls for a smaller expenditure on books than ever before. Certain text books have been eliminated, thus making savings possible, while the only new books authorized are inexpensive.

In the public school grades, the only new book to be authorized was the Canadian Music Primer (price 10 cents), for use of grades three and four. This was necessitated by the addition of Music to the public school curriculum in all grades. On the other hand, Elementary Composition (price 40 cents), formerly a text book for grades five to eight, and Public School Grammar (35 cents), formerly an alternative text with English Grammar in grades six to eight, both have been dropped, as no text book is authorized in this subject. Further, the cost of the Canadian Speller was reduced, this year, from 40 cents to 30 cents.

With the exception of literature selections in English and foreign languages, the high school text books authorized for this year are almost identical with those of last year, according to the statement. Selections in supplementary reading have been made throughout the curriculum, with earnest requests from high school teachers. Literature selections in grades nine and twelve have been changed for the same reason, while a few changes have been made in Latin, French and German prose. It is the usual practice for departments of education to change the selections in English and foreign languages annually, but, the statement adds, no changes were made in Saskatchewan for 1930-31. The cost of literature and foreign language texts, it is pointed out, range from 15 to 50 cents. In grade twelve Biology, the former text book being out of print, it was replaced, necessarily, by the revised edition. However, pupils having access to the old text are not required to purchase the new book.

Free Distribution
Carrying the economies with regard to school text books further, the Department of Education has made arrangements with the Saskatchewan Teachers' Alliance for the collection of used text books, and their distribution, free of charge, amongst schools in the dried-out areas of the province.

Lovely Skin Vegetable Pills Did What Creams Couldn't

"I find (writes Miss E. T. Clapham) that Carter's Little Liver Pills will do more to keep my complexion clear and the skin free from blemishes than all the face creams I have used." Dr. Carter's Little Liver Pills are no ordinary laxative. They are ALL-VEGETABLE and have a definite, valuable tonic action upon the liver. They end Constipation, Indigestion, Bilelessness, Headaches, Acidity, All sluggish. 25c and 75c red packages.

Where text books, previously authorized, are available, they may be used as long as they are in good condition. The statement issued by Premier Anderson covering this phase of the matter, which follows:

The Department of Education has received many letters from all parts of the province, but particularly from the dried-out areas, requesting that pupils unable to purchase school books should be furnished with them by the Department. Arrangements have now been made with the executive of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Alliance whereby the latter undertakes to assist the department in taking care of cases of urgent need. The Alliance has welcomed the opportunity of sharing the responsibilities of the press.

"Through their 176 local in the province, the Alliance will gather to at least some of the discarded books available in their respective areas, at the same time they will ascertain the needs of the children in their district, the books to become the property of the school will not be loaned for use.

"Any surplus will be sent to the Department of Education, and where there are cases which the locals are unable to handle, the information will be passed on to the department for attention. The department will undertake to distribute used books outside the territory served by the Alliance, where a local is unable to meet the local demands.

"The Department of Education has decided that no child should be kept out of school because of lack of books. Relief will be furnished as quickly as possible. In the meantime children should be kept in regular attendance at school. Where the books previously authorized are available, they may be used to meet this emergency demand, provided authorized books are not available. It is further stated that, where necessary, teachers should arrange the sharing of books among their pupils as it is not essential that every child should possess a complete set."

Solution Of Economic Distress On Prairies

Lies In Diversified Farming Opinion Of Financial Corporation President

More diversified farming and limitation of livestock, according to a system of advisory farm management is the only solution for economic distress on the Canadian prairies, in the opinion of C. M. Bowman, president of the Colonization Finance Corporation. It has been ascertained from a tour of 125 western farms which are being operated under the supervision of the corporation.

The company was formed in 1929 when it was found mortgagors were falling arrears of interest and tenants and purchasers under sale agreements were failing to meet their obligations.

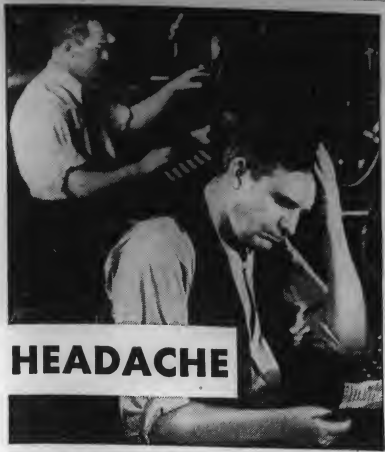

Through its system, western farmers were slowly being shifted away from an all-wheat crop, he said.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

—BY—

MARGARET FEDLER
Author of
"The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit
Of Far East,"
Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

"Staple? Is that the Brennans' place?"

"God, bless my soul, no! The Brennans acquired it when they came pushing over to England with the Conqueror, I imagine. Anne married twice, you know. Her first husband, Tormentor, led her a dog's life, and after his death she married Claude Brennans—son of a junior branch of the Brennans. Now she is a widow for the second time."

"And are there any children?"

"Two sons. The elder is the son of the first marriage and is the owner of Staple, of course. The younger one is the child of the second marriage. I believe that since Brennans' death they all three live very comfortably together at Staple—at least, they did ten years ago when I last heard from Anne. That was not long after Brennans died."

Jean wrinkled her brows.

"Rather a confusing household to be suddenly pitchforked into," she commented.

"But not dull!" submitted Peterson triumphantly. "And dullness is, after all, the biggest bugbear of existence." As if suddenly stabbed by the palpable pose of his own remark, the light died out of his face and he looked round the great dim hall with a restless, eager glance, as though trying to impress the picture of it on his memory.

Beirfells—my 'House of Dreams-Come-True!' he muttered to himself.

He had named it thus in those first glowing days when love had transformed the grim old border castle turning it into a place of magic visions and consummated hopes. The whimsical name took its origin from a little song which Jacqueline had been wont to sing to him, a glorious voice investing the simple words with a passionate belief and triumph.

It's a strange road leads to the House of Dreams,

To the House of Dreams-Come-True,
Its hills are steep and its valleys deep,
And salt with tears the Wayfarers weep.

The Wayfarers—I and you,
But there's sure a way to the House of Dreams,
To the House of Dreams-Come-True.

We shall find it yet, ere the sun has set.

If we face straight on, some fine, some wet,
Wayfarers—I and you."

Peterson's eyes rested curiously on his daughter's face. There was something mystic, almost visionary, in their quiet, absent gaze.

"One day, Jean," he said, "when you meet any man who matters, Beirfells shall be yours—the house where your dreams shall come true. It's a house of ghosts now—a dead house. But some day you and the man you love will make it live again."

CHAPTER II.

Madame De Varigny

Jean was standing looking out from the window of her room in the hotel at Montavan. In the distance, the great white peaks of the Alps strained upwards, piercing the mass of drifting cloud, whilst below lay a world sheeted in snow, the long reach of dazzling purity broken only where the pine-woods etched black trunks against the whiteness and the gleam of a frozen lake showed like a broad blade drawn from a white velvet scabbard.

It had been part of Peterson's expressed programme that, before going their separate ways, he and Jean should make a brief stay at Montavan, there to await Lady Anne Brennans' answer to his letter. Jean had divined in this determination an excuse, covering his need to take farewell of that grave on the lonely mountain-side before he set out upon the solitary journey which could not fail to hold poignant memories of other, former wanderings—wanderings invested with the exquisite joy of sharing each adventure with a beloved fellow-wayfarer.

Instinctively though Jean had recognised the desire at the back of Clyde's decision to stop at Montavan, she was scrupulously careful not to let him guess her recognition. She took her cue from his own demeanour, which was outwardly that of a man manly travelling for pleasure, and she listened with a grim sense of amusement when poor Monsieur Vautrinot, the Maître d'Hotel, recognising Peterson as a former client, sympathetically recalled the sad circumstances of his previous visit and was roundly snubbed for his pains.

To Jean the loss of her mother had meant far less than it would have done to a girl in more commonplace circumstances. It was true that Jacqueline had shown herself all too kindhearted and generous in her genuine wish to compass the girl's happiness, and that Jean had been frankly fond of her and attracted to her, but in no sense of the words had there been any interpretation of a maternal or filial relationship. Of course I know I'm a quite superfluous third at Beirfells, but, all the same, you two really do make the most perfect host and hostess, and you try awfully hard not to let me feel de trop."

But, despite the fact that Jacqueline had represented little more to her daughter than a brilliant and delightful personality with whom circumstances happened to have brought her into contact, Jean was conscious of a sudden thrill of pain as her glance travelled across the wide stretches of snow and came at last to rest on the shoulder of a hill. She was moved by an immense consciousness of loss—not just the mere sense of bereavement which the circumstances would naturally have engendered, but something more absolute—a sense of all the exquisite material element which she had missed in the woman who was dead.

And then came recognition of the uselessness of such regret. Nothing could have made Jacqueline other than she was—one of the world's great lovers. Mated to the man she loved, she asked nothing more of Nature, nor had she herself anything more to give. And the same reasoning, though perhaps in a less degree, could be applied to Peterson's own attitude of detachment towards his daughter; although Jean was intuitively aware that she had come to mean more to him since her mother's death, even though it might be, perhaps, only because she represented a tangible link with his past happiness.

Thrusting aside the oppression of thoughts conjured up by her glimpse of that quiet God's Acres, Jean, among the hills, she turned abruptly from the window and made her way downstairs to the hotel vestibule.

Here she discovered that Peterson had been claimed by some acquaintance. The encounter was obviously not of his own choosing, for, in Jean's experienced eye, his face bore the slightly restive expression common to it when circumstances had momentarily got the better of him.

His companions were a somewhat elaborate little Frenchman of fifty or thereabouts, with an unmistakable air of breeding about him, and a stately-looking woman some fifteen years younger, whose warm brunette colouring and swift, mobile gesture proclaimed her of Latin blood. All three were conversing in French.

"Ah! La voix qui vient!" Peterson turned as Jean approached, his quick exclamation tinged with relief. Still in French, which both he and Jean spoke as fluently and with as little accent as English, he continued rapidly: "Jean, let me present you to Madame la Comtesse de Varigny."

The girl found herself being led straight into a pair of eyes that of peculiarly opaque, dense brown colour to Southern races. They were heavily fringed with long black lashes, giving them a fathomless and disarming expression, yet Jean was vaguely conscious that their real expression held something secret and implacable, almost repellent, an impression strengthened by the virile, strongly-marked black brows that lay so close above them.

For the rest, Madame de Varigny was undeniably a beautiful woman, her blue-black, rather coarse hair framing an oval face, extraordinarily attractive in colour, with somewhat high cheek bones and a clever, flexible mouth.

Jean's first instinctive feeling was one of dislike. In spite of her knowledge that Varigny was one of the oldest names in France, the Countess struck her as partaking a little of the adventures—of the type of woman of no particular birth who has climbed by her wits—and she wondered what position she had occupied prior to her marriage.

She was sharply recalled from her thoughts to find that Madame de Varigny was introducing the little middle-aged Frenchman to her as her husband, and immediately she spoke Jean felt her suspicious melting away beneath the warm, caressing cadences of an unusually beautiful voice. Such a voice was a straight passport to the heart, seemed to clothe even the prosaic little Count in an almost romantic atmosphere of tender charm, an effect which he speedily dispelled by giving a Jean a full, true, and particular account of the various pulmonary symptoms which annually induced him to seek the high, dry air of Montavan.

Pleanty Of Money

Savings Bank Deposits Continue To Mount In Face Of Depression

The total of Canadian savings bank deposits in July, 1931, was $49,000,000 higher than in July, 1930.

The total in savings deposits in July of this year was nearing a billion and a half, or approximately $1,451,000,000.

This is a large amount of money and it is rather a conflicting situation that it should be growing at a time when the country is obviously "hard up."

Several things may account for the increase. In the first place a great many persons with a little money to spare are now putting it into the banks instead of into the stock market. They are not as keen on the stock market as they were two years ago—probably the result of experience.

Hard times also encourage saving on the part of those who have jobs. Instead of spending as in normal times they are attempting to get something ahead because they feel that their jobs are not secure.

Furthermore, the opportunities for investing money in smaller developments are difficult to find at this time. Trade is in such a condition that the chances of any new enterprise succeeding is rather remote.

There is some evidence available that a policy of fear has something to do with the falling off in buying at this time. If workers felt sure of keeping their jobs they would be much freer in their buying.—Leader-Post, Regina.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

THE NAME OF LOVE

Men have taken the name of love in vain,

As a moon-like glow that can wax and wane;

They have lost the knowledge that love must be

Unchanged, through time and eternity.

Though life is merciful, kind and pure, As quick in forgiveness as strong to

They have bargained for terms and striven to prove

The right to reason and barter in love.

But love through the ages is still the same,

Not the flower of a day or a shining name,

For when love the door of a life walks through

That life in an instant is shaped anew;

Things that were sordid and mean depart

And a glamour glows in the happy heart;

Ah, love means pity and power and pain,

And it enters into no life in vain!

Bright Future For Air Service

Canada Will Be Important Link In Air Route To Europe

Canada as the all-important link between Europe on the east and the Orient on the west, was assured of a bright future in the air if the Dominion and Provincial Governments, as well as the citizens helped to develop aviation. Major-General J. H. MacInnes, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and head of the Aviation League of Canada, told members of the Canadian Club at Victoria.

Recent figures by the Lindberghs and German aviators who had blazed new trails between the United States and Asia and Europe respectively, had shown the importance of having routes through the Dominion, he said.

He said that a two-day air service between Winnipeg and England was feasible, and traced other routes of particular value to the commercial world.

Deaths From Tuberculosis

High Mortality Among Industrial Employees In Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick

Canada's tuberculosis death rate is much higher than that for the United States, and this discrepancy is due almost entirely to the high mortality among industrial employees in the provinces of Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, according to a detailed study of the situation made by Louis J. Dublin, Ph.D., at the sessions of the American Public Health Association held in Montreal. Dr. Dublin is the statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York.

The rates quoted by him show that in 1920 tuberculosis took 59 lives from every 100,000 whites living in the United States. In Canada the death rate was 97.3 per 100,000.

Idle Money Of No Benefit

If Put Into Circulation Would Help End Depression

A lot of twaddle has been expressed by the so-called economic experts who have talked of everything under high heaven as the cause of depression. The fact of the matter is, the average newspaper is telling the people more directly what is wrong than any other agency, as per example in the Ottawa Journal: "An unemployed dollar is only worth the paper it is printed on." It is as useless and as unproductive as an unemployed man. And only when all of our people get a firm understanding of this, only when those of us who have a little money, or a lot of it, start putting it into circulation, will prosperity start coming back. It certainly won't come back as long as money lies idle in the banks."

Siam's Rulers Visit Canada

Canada's most illustrious guests for the present week are undoubtedly Their Majesties The King and Queen of Siam, who, with a party of relatives, officials and servants from their own land, are at present making their way across this country and misting few if any of the sights that should be seen by the intelligent tourist in our midst.

His Majesty King Prajadhipok, pronounced Pra-cha-ti-pok, with the accent on the second syllable, is the descendant of Buddha, and holder of half a dozen stirring Oriental titles, and furthermore, the unquestioned master of the destinies of ten million people. Naturally, then, one looks toward seeing him with keen interest, and all unprepared for the shock when a well-groomed gentleman steps from his train and with smiling courtesy and in English speaks quite undistinguishable from that spoken by cultured Canadians greets those who await him. Later we understand it. An Oxford education and a term or two at a French military school as well as visits of study to the United States and other occidental countries have had their effect upon a naturally active mind of an outstandingly intelligent nature.

Siam is fortunate in her King. Under his enlightened guidance she is moving slowly out of Oriental medievalism into such modernism as is good for the country's welfare and happiness, not by revolution or the sudden casting away of long-tried things that have proved their use, but by the gradual assimilation of the things that are found good among the modern.

This ruler of men takes his

The beautiful Wat Po temple, at Bangkok, capital of Siam, gives a splendid example of the country's architecture. Inset: Their Majesties King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai Barni, landing from the Canadian Government steamer "Lady Grey," at Montreal, where they were accorded an enthusiastic welcome.

kingship seriously. You see it in his every move, in his grave, thoughtful air, and in the serious respectful manner in which the members of his suite approach him. More than all it is seen in what he has done for Siam. Of his Queen, Rambai Barni, columns might be written. Her charm of manner and captivating smile have captured all who have met her ever since she first set foot on Canadian soil at Quebec. As modern as her husband, and speaking as excellent English, as indeed do all sixteen members of her suite, Her Majesty seems to enjoy every moment of her stay in Canada.

It is astonishing how interested the party are in Canadian history, and historic scenes. When at Quebec the battlefields of the Plains of Abraham were gone over most carefully and every interesting relic in and about the city was duly visited. The party occupied a complete upper floor in the tower of the Chateau Frontenac from where they had a view of the whole theatre of the struggle that ended in the fall of the French regime. His Majesty did not come to Canada as a stranger.

He was here six years ago on his way to Europe and he already knew something of our history. In that fact lies the explanation of the exceedingly interesting statement he issued to the people of Canada upon his arrival at Quebec. It was as follows:

"In landing upon this continent in British Columbia last April I expressed the hope that I might have an opportunity of seeing more of this great and growing member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. That hope is about to be realized. We shall remain for a time here in 'Old Canada' where the sturdy characteristics of French and British forebears have blended in a culture as admirable as it is unique. After meeting officials of the Government, and visiting the Capital of the Dominion, we shall travel west through Canada, remaining for a time in the Canadian Rockies before embarking at Vancouver. I look forward to the opportunity of seeing at closer range the people and the institutions of this nation whose vigor and progressiveness are so happily apparent."
